FOREWORD

On December 7, 1970, the doors of the district court were opened in seventeen North Carolina counties, thus completing a program of court reorganization which had its beginnings more than a decade ago. North Carolina now has a unified judicial system operating in all one hundred counties of the State. The unified judicial system consists of an Appellate Division composed of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, a Superior Court Division, and a District Court Division.

The system is unified for purposes of jurisdiction, operation and administration. All of the officers and personnel of the Judicial Department are employees of the State.

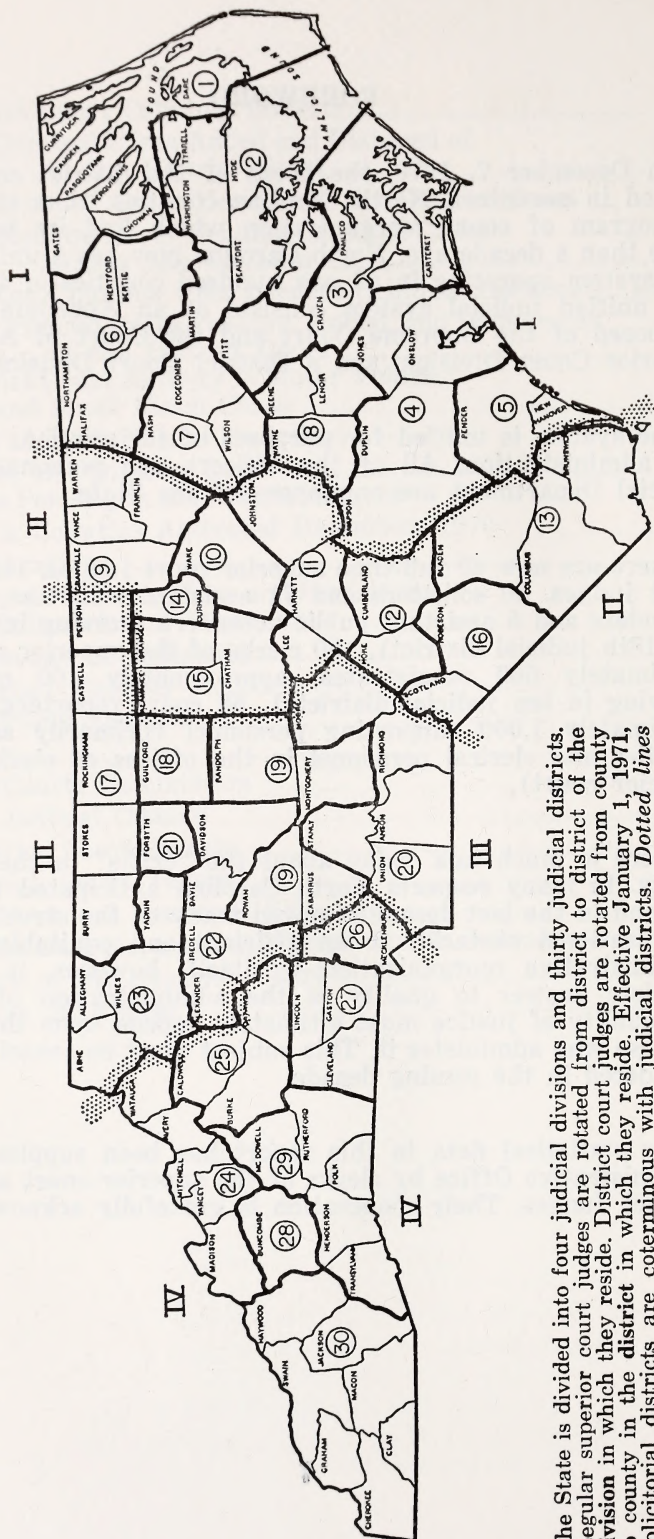

There are now 49 full-time superior court judges, 112 district court judges, 30 solicitors and 71 assistant solicitors, 2 public defenders and 5 assistant public defenders (serving in the 12th and 18th judicial district), 100 clerks of the superior court, approximately 500 magistrates, approximately 100 counselors (serving in ten judicial districts), 58 court reporters, and approximately 1,000 supporting personnel (primarily assistants, deputies and clerical personnel in the offices of clerks of the superior court).

There is much talk today about the "crisis" in the nation's courts. In many respects North Carolina anticipated this "crisis" and in the last decade removed many of the structural and organizational obstacles to an efficient and equitable system. Administrative reorganization by itself, however, is not the complete answer to quality in the administration of justice. The quality of justice must ultimately depend upon the quality of those who administer it. This subject must be conscientiously considered in the coming decade.

The statistical data in this report has been supplied to the Administrative Office by clerks of the superior court and Chief District Judges. Their cooperation is gratefully acknowledged.

NORTH CAROLINA JUDICIAL DIVISIONS AND DISTRICTS

The State is divided into four judicial divisions and thirty judicial districts. Regular superior court judges are rotated from district to district of the division in which they reside. District court judges are rotated from county to county in the district in which they reside. Effective January 1, 1971, solicitor districts are coterminous with judicial districts. Dotted lines separate judicial divisions; heavy black lines separate judicial districts.

THE APPELLATE DIVISION

The number of opinions filed by the Supreme Court in 1970 increased substantially over 1969. Sixty-seven opinions were filed in 1969 while 109 opinions were filed in 1970. Full opinions were written in 105 cases and four opinions were per curiam. Of these opinions, 55 dealt with criminal cases and 54 dealt with civil cases. Seventy-six per cent (42 opinions) of the criminal appeals were affirmed and 44% (24 opinions) of the civil appeals were affirmed. In the remaining cases the Supreme Court modified the decision from which the appeal was taken. The Supreme Court considered 154 petitions for certiorari from the Court of Appeals.

The Supreme Court's order of July, 1970 is causing an increase in the number of appeals docketed in that court. Pursuant to G.S. 7A-31(b) (4), the Court ordered direct transfer without consideration by the Court of Appeals of civil actions involving a governmental unit and criminal actions involving offenses for which the maximum punishment exceeds ten years imprisonment.

Nineteen and seventy is the first year in which a full complement of nine judges have occupied seats on the Court of Appeals for a complete twelve month period. According to data supplied by the Clerk of the Court of Appeals, the number of opinions filed by that court has increased annually. Three hundred and ninety-two opinions were filed in 1968, 536 opinions were filed in 1969, and 602 opinions were filed in 1970. Pursuant to the order of the Supreme Court referred to above, 31 cases which were docketed in the Court of Appeals were transferred directly to the Supreme Court prior to consideration by the Court of Appeals.

THE SUPERIOR COURT DIVISION

Nineteen and seventy marks the second year in which the district court system has been fully operational in 83 counties of the State. It was operational in all 100 counties for most of the month of December, 1970. After two years of operation in 83 counties, the impact of the district court upon the caseload of the superior court appears to have stabilized. The availability of the new district court was largely responsible for a decrease of 34.8% in the number of cases filed in the superior court in 1969, but in 1970 filings increased by almost 5,000 cases.

Filings in the superior court increased by 9.7%, dispositions decreased by 10.9%, and the number of cases pending at the end of the year increased by 7.6%. Although 50,590 cases were filed, only 48,259 were disposed of. The 48,259 cases counted as disposed of is a somewhat misleading figure in that a few thousand of these were transfers of pending superior court cases to the new district court in the seventeen counties where the new system was implemented in 1970. Consequently, the number of dispositions on the merits of the case was in fact less than 48,259.

Superior Court was scheduled for 121 fewer days than in 1969, but there was an increase of 60 days in the amount of court utilized. The percentage of court utilization increased from 78.5% to 80.3%.

SUPERIOR COURT CIVIL DOCKETS

There was an increase of 12.6% in civil filings during 1970, but dispositions decreased by 25.0%. Nevertheless, the number of cases pending at the end of the year decreased by 12.2%.

The decrease in dispositions is perhaps affected by a reduction of the number of days of court scheduled and held. The number of days scheduled decreased by 9.8%, and the number of days actually held decreased by 7.8%. The percentage of court utilization increased from 71.9% to 73.5%.

The ten counties with the largest civil dockets accounted for 46.3% of the total pending civil cases. Fifty-nine counties had 100 or fewer cases pending and only seven counties had more than 500 cases pending. Four of the counties with the largest number of cases pending ranked below the statewide average for the amount of scheduled court which was utilized.

1. Includes some pending superior court cases which were transferred to the district court division after its establishment in seventeen counties in December of 1970. The figures therefore appear unusually high for some counties, e.g., Cabarrus County.

SUPERIOR COURT CRIMINAL DOCKETS

An examination of the criminal statistics for the superior court indicates some cause for concern. In recent years the superior court has been able to dispose of approximately the same number of cases that were added to its docket, with only minor increases in its backlog of cases. The 1970 statistics suggest a reversal of this trend.

Although 37,001 criminal actions were filed in 1970, the court was able to dispose of only 32,724. Consequently, the number of cases pending at the end of the year increased from 12,640 in 1969 to 16,919 in 1970. As compared to 1969, filings increased by 8.7%, dispositions decreased by 2.2%, and the number of cases pending at the end of the year increased by 25.3%. The number of days of court scheduled in 1970 increased by 6.8% and the number of days actually held increased by 7.6%.

The distribution of pending criminal cases among the counties resembles the distribution for civil cases. Most of the counties have relatively few pending cases, while a few counties have a large number. Fifty-four counties had 100 or fewer cases pending at the end of the year and only seven counties had more than 500 pending. The ten counties with the largest criminal dockets accounted for 38.9% of the total pending criminal cases. Three of these counties ranked below the statewide average for the amount of scheduled court which was utilized.

THE DISTRICT COURT DIVISION

The district court system has now been activated in all 100 counties. It has been operational in 83 counties of the State for a full two year period, and for the first time it is possible to compare activity in the district court from one year to another. Not surprisingly, the 1970 data indicates an increase in every measure of district court activity when compared to 1969.

In 1970, the district court held 5,885 days of civil court and 10,670 days of criminal court. The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court is authorized to transfer a district judge from one district to another for temporary or specialized duty. During this year, judges held a total of 237 days of court in judicial districts other than their own. Judges were assigned out of their district for only 133 days in 1969.

With the exception of the table on page 60, all of the tables and graphs which follow report data from the 83 counties which have been in the system for the full two year period. The table on page 60 simply gives the number of cases pending at the end of the year in the 17 counties activated on December 7, 1970.

DISTRICT COURT CIVIL DOCKETS

As compared to 1969, filings increased by 16.9%, dispositions increased by 18.9% and the number of cases pending at the end of the year increased by 14.3%.

The ten counties with the largest civil dockets accounted for 52.7% of the total civil cases pending at the end of 1970. Forty-seven counties had less than 300 cases pending and only 11 counties had more than 1,000 cases pending.

The statistical breakdown for the types of cases handled and the manner of disposition indicates little change from 1969. Small claims cases continue to account for more than one-half of the civil workload. Of the total of 121,688 cases filed in 1970, 55.9% consisted of small claims, 22.4% consisted of domestic and juvenile matters, and 21.7% were for claims in excess of $300. The 26,443 cases constituting this latter category would have been filed in the superior court but for the availability of the district court. This civil jurisdiction of the district court has had significant effect in reducing the civil caseload of the superior court. Of the total of 115,714 cases which were disposed of, 29.8% were handled by a judge without a jury and only 2.1% were disposed of with a jury. 53.4% of all civil dispositions were by the magistrates and 14.7% were disposed of by other means.

In the discretion of the Chief District Judge, small claim actions may be assigned to a magistrate or reserved for regular disposition by a district judge. The statistics indicate that 90.9% of all small claims were disposed of by magistrates.

DISTRICT COURT CRIMINAL DOCKETS

In comparison with 1969, filings increased by 6.5%, dispositions increased by 6.6%, and the number of cases pending at the end of the year increased 18.1%.

The ten counties with the largest criminal dockets accounted for 60.9% of the total criminal cases pending at the end of 1970. Thirty-eight counties had less than 300 cases pending and 18 counties had more than 1,000 cases pending. In 1969, only 13 counties had more than 1,000 cases pending at the end of the year.

The statistical breakdown for the types of cases handled and the manner of disposition is little changed from 1969. In 1970, 63.6% (504,778) of all criminal cases filed were for violations of the traffic laws. Other criminal offenses (288,865) made up the remaining 36.4%. Only 12.7% of the cases disposed of were contested resulting in a full-fledged trial before a district court judge. A judge or magistrate disposed of 31.2% upon a plea of guilty or nolo contendere, and 40.8% were disposed of by a written appearance waiving trial and pleading guilty before a magistrate or clerk. Preliminary hearings constituted only 1.8% of the business of the district courts and the remaining 13.5% of the total dispositions were terminated by other means.

All but the most serious motor vehicle violations may be disposed of by a simple written appearance waiving trial and pleading guilty which the violator may submit to either a magistrate or a clerk of the superior court. Utilization of this procedure for disposing of guilty pleas eases courtroom congestion and delay. In 1970, 63.0% of all motor vehicle filings were disposed of by this procedure. Due to a number of factors, the use of this procedure has varied widely from county to county. In some counties more than 75.0% of the traffic cases were disposed of by waiver. Nine counties disposed of less than 50.0% by this method, and in one county the percentage was only 29.1%. The increased use of the waiver would remove from the courts traffic violators who simply wish to plead guilty and would give judicial personnel more time to devote to significant matters. A new uniform traffic ticket, containing detailed instructions on the use of the waiver procedure, will be made available in 1971. It is hoped that its use will increase the number of waivers in counties that are not now realizing the full benefits of this procedure.

1. In some counties, the per cent of cases disposed of exceeds one hundred per cent because cases pending on January 1, 1970 are not included in the "filed" column. The figures in both the "filed" and "disposed of" columns are for the calendar year 1970. Some of the cases filed in 1970 will not be disposed of until 1971 and some of the cases disposed of in 1970 were filed in 1969. Assuming a fairly constant rate of filing and disposition, the percentages are relatively accurate.

FISCAL OPERATIONS

1969 - 70

During this fiscal year the district court system was fully operational in 83 counties. Thus, both receipts and expenditures increased substantially over the previous fiscal year. Ratio of receipts to expenditures however remained approximately the same, with total receipts from court operations exceeding State expenditures by almost one million dollars.

Of the total receipts, $6,637,462.38 went into the State general fund. This constitutes 35.2% of State expenditures. The Law Enforcement Officers Benefit and Retirement Fund received $1,732,169.50, or approximately 9.2% of State expenditures. Again the largest single item of receipts was fines and forfeitures. During the year the courts collected more than eight million dollars for this account and paid it to the various counties for use in the school fund.

The table which follows gives a county by county breakdown of fees distributed to each county and the municipalities within that county.

REPRESENTATION OF INDIGENTS

ASSIGNED COUNSEL

When the Gideon Case was decided in 1963, the North Carolina General Assembly was in session, and it thereupon passed an act appropriating funds to pay counsel appointed to represent indigent defendants. Entitlement was extended as a matter of right to indigents charged with a felony and awaiting trial in the Superior Court. The Superior Court judges were given the discretionary authority to appoint counsel to represent an indigent charged with a misdemeanor if the circumstances required. Each succeeding session of the General Assembly broadened the entitlement. Under the current law, an indigent person is entitled to counsel in the following actions and proceedings:

- (1) Any felony case, and any misdemeanor case for which the authorized punishment exceeds six months imprisonment or a five hundred dollars ($500.00) fine;
- (2) A hearing on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus under Chapter 17, of the General Statutes;
- (3) A post-conviction proceeding under Chapter 15 of the General Statutes;
- (4) A hearing for revocation of probation, if counsel was provided at trial or if confinement of more than six months is possible as a result of the hearing;
- (5) A hearing in which extradition to another state is sought;
- (6) A proceeding for judicial hospitalization under Chapter 122, Article 11 (Mentally Ill Criminals), of the General Statutes;
- (7) A civil arrest and bail proceeding under Chapter 1, Article 34, of the General Statutes; and
- (8) In the case of a juvenile, a hearing as a result of which commitment to an institution or transfer to the superior court for trial on a felony charge is possible.

In each of the actions and proceedings referred to above, entitlement to the services of counsel begins as soon as feasible after the indigent is taken into custody or service is made upon him of the charge, petition, notice or other process, and continues through any critical stage of the proceeding, including

- (1) An in-custody interrogation;
- (2) A pretrial identification procedure at which the presence of the indigent is required;

- (3) A hearing for the reduction of bail, or to fix bail if bail has been earlier denied;
- (4) A preliminary hearing;
- (5) Trial and sentencing; and
- (6) Direct review of any judgment or decree, including review by the United States Supreme Court of final judgments or decrees rendered by the highest court of North Carolina in which decision may be had.

As would be expected, the costs of the indigent defendant program have increased along with the liberalized entitlement. During the first year of operation (fiscal year 1963-64), counsel was appointed in 3,003 cases and expenditures amounted to $238,956. During the next succeeding five fiscal years, the cases and expenditures were as follows:

Fiscal Year	Cases	Expenditures
1964-65	3,941	$390,427
1965-66	4,450	491,600

1967-68	5,380	670,067
1968-69	5,515	767,265

For the 1969-70 fiscal year, the number of cases in which counsel was assigned and the total disbursements are shown in the table below broken down by counties grouped into judicial districts:

The total cost of operating the indigent defendant program during the year was $1,171,933.54. Receipts from payments made on judgments entered against the indigents amounted to $26,414.88.

The great increase in the cases of assigned counsel has led some to conclude that the judges are not screening the cases as carefully as they should and that many who are not indigent are receiving representation at the expense of the taxpayers.

Concern has been expressed as to the incidence of indigency among the defendants in criminal cases processed by our courts. As to the trial courts this data is not available. In the appellate division it is available and interesting. Of the criminal appeals docketed in the Court of Appeals during calendar year 1968, 70.3% involved indigents. The figures for 1969 and 1970 were 72.2% and 76.1%, respectively. In the Supreme Court, 73.1% of the criminal appeals docketed in 1968 were brought by indigents. During the two succeeding years the percentages were 71.8% and 81.1%, respectively. This data would seem to support the inference already drawn by some on the basis of the records on appeal that many indigents come to the appellate court for no other apparent reason than that the court is there. Some thought has been given in the past to the possibility of restricting the unlimited access to the appellate division. The continuing barrage of appeals, many of which involve no substantial question, may revive that thought.

THE PUBLIC DEFENDER

The 1969 General Assembly, upon recommendation of the Courts Commission, elected to try a new approach to the problem of representation of indigents. It established the office of Public Defender in the 12th and 18th judicial districts effective January 1, 1970. Public Defenders are appointed by the Governor to a four-year term of office and are paid the same salary as the Solicitors. Each defender is entitled to at least one full-time assistant defender and one investigator. Secretarial support and additional assistants and investigators may be authorized by the Administrative Office of the Courts.

On January 1, 1970, Sol G. Cherry of Fayetteville entered the office of Public Defender in the 12th district and Wallace C. Harrelson of Greensboro assumed office in the 18th district. Each office began operation with a minimal staff and received increased allocations only after the needs were clearly demonstrated. During the period from January 1 to June 30, 1970, operating costs of these offices were $26,248.15 in the 12th district and $32,843.12 in the 18th district.

These offices have not operated a sufficient length of time to support a conclusive judgment that the interests of the State are better served in a metropolitan area by the Public Defender system than by assigned counsel. However, there is strong evidence that a defender office staffed as are the two now in existence provides better representation. This cannot be statistically demonstrated but it is supported by the overwhelming majority of interested court officials in the areas affected who have been called upon to evaluate the system. That the two offices have been busy is unquestioned. During the 1970 calendar year, the office in the 18th district was assigned 949 persons involved in the following charges or proceedings:

Felonies	877
Serious Misdemeanors	396
Post Conviction Hearings	15
Probation Revocation Hearings	49
Juvenile Hearings	213
"Other" Proceedings	5

In the course of its representation, the office made 612 appearances in district court, 404 in superior court, and 9 in the appellate courts.

The 12th district office was assigned persons involved in charges or proceedings as follows:

Felonies	644
Serious Misdemeanors	370
Post Conviction Hearings	5
Probation Revocation Hearings	8
Juvenile Hearings	15
"Other" Proceedings	9

That office made 601 appearances in district court, 239 in superior court, and 4 in the appellate courts.
